

Designer: CERAMICATION

The Coper Vase takes inspiration from Hans Coper, an influential potter who was born in Germany and fled to Britain during WWII, later serving as a conscientious objector in the British Non-Combatant Corps. A student and contemporary of Dame Lucie Rie, he was also a leader in the studio potter movement.

Referencing one of his famous pottery forms featuring an upper vessel that tapers down to tiptoe on a pedestal, this vase is a tribute to his contribution to pottery and his peaceful conscience.
