

Designer: THIS IS ABORIGINAL ART

Acclaimed Aboriginal artist, Walala Tjapaltjarri paints the sacred story of the 'Tingari Cycle' through a patterning of squares and concentric circles joined together by white dots.

The painting shows the Aboriginal storyline of where the Tingari ancestors camped as they created the land, flora, and fauna around them and also the law by which the traditional Pintupi people live.

Walala is a traditional Pintupi man who only had contact with European civilisation in 1984. The media at the time called Walala and his brothers and sisters, "The Last Nomads".
