

Rain is the essence of life on our planet. The Earth is composed of 97.5% unusable saltwater and only 2.5% fresh water. Rain is essential for the survival of all biological species and our planet itself. We also have an intense romantic notion of rain adopted from movies and literature. Listening to the gentle ripples of droplets colliding over static puddles and observing cascading streams of water flowing over tactile surfaces evokes a sense of chaos and serenity at the same time.

Circular acrylic disc of 3 different sizes at 5 mm thickness are laser engraved with gradient distance cylindrical lines that absorbs light from the design's central lighting organization. This recreates the ripple effect of rain drops over static water. Once illuminated, the ceiling lamp will become an artistic installation of ripples above the user and installed interior space.

SUGO design also took inspiration from the Chinese believe that water as an element can bring luck and fortune to any given situations. Like FLY, RAIN with its modular system can be either a single entity or a cluster of RAINing elements. The more that are installed, the more spectacular the interior space becomes.
