The study is the most important room for any scholar. In the book "The Compilation of Stationery" written by Tu Long, a Ming Dynasty scholar, he described more than forty types of calligraphy utensils and stationery for the study, all of which were elegant and extremely exquisite.

This Tranquility set is a collection of four commonly used calligraphy utensils, including a brush rack, a seal, an ink dish and a water container. The organic form of the objects is a modern interpretation of the ancient style, offering a sense of calmness during calligraphy practice.
