

Designer: TAI PING CARPETS

As part of Fernando Mastrangelo's fascination with all things glacial, the rounds of pollution that infiltrate the ice over decades create a natural layering reminiscent of his earlier works. This design is expertly tufted by skilled artisans.

Fernando Mastrangelo is a Brooklyn-based contemporary artist best known for his sculptures, furniture and large-scale wall works by using typically commonplace materials such as salt, coffee, sand, glass and cement. He has always been inspired by his surroundings - the people, the places, and the politics. His works are intriguingly contradictory; both rugged and refined, durable and delicate, formal and functional.
