This large Blue Dye Flower-Rimmed Bowl has a playfully poetic quality with its soft gradient that spreads within the spontaneous curves, giving the bowl a simple yet elegant appearance. The Ancient Chinese were inspired by nature when they shaped the rims of dining vessels into flowers. With a mouth that looks like the first blossom of a flower, this everyday dinnerware makes for an aesthetically pleasing tabletop accessory that brings out the colors and flavors of every meal. The bone powder content for the bowl is 43%, which far exceeds the international bone china standards.
