The Ancient Chinese were inspired by nature to shape the rims of dining vessels into flowers. Reimagined from the traditional flower rim, this pair of Blue Dye Flower-Rimmed Cups has a flowing diamond pattern that is evenly distributed, with a gradation of the indigo blue sprouting from the bottom to the mouth rim, just like a flower bud. These cups have a playfully poetic quality that exudes elegance in everyday dining.

The bone powder content for each cup is 43%, which far exceeds the international bone china standards. Compared to ordinary white porcelain, bone china is light and thin, delicate and translucent, with a crisp, clear sound when tapped and twice as hard as everyday porcelain.
